Provide reasons for the program suspension.

After the last full time faculty member in German retired in 2020, we have been having difficulty identifying and retaining qualified German instructors. We have been unable to offer UD classes for two years and beginning Fall 2024, will likely not be able to offer LD German language classes. After an unsuccessful search for a Tenure Track German professor in 2021/22 (we lost all four finalist during negotiation), we have not been granted a new search since. If granted a TT line in German in the future, we will restart the German minor.

Program Description

Courses in German encompass the study of German language, literature, and culture. Language study begins with the imparting of the four basic language skills, namely, speaking, aural comprehension, reading, and writing. The teaching of these skills is provided as part of programs in liberal arts, in general education and in professional training, as well as a service for other degree programs.

The imparting of the basic language skills is the first and necessary step toward what is actually the liberal arts core of our curriculum: the upper division offerings. It is through the advanced language, literature, and culture courses that the students become familiar with the intricacies of another language and with the literary and cultural contributions made by the people who speak it.

Students who are considering the study of German should talk to a German faculty advisor. Each student minoring in German is assigned an advisor upon entry into the program. For assistance in obtaining an advisor, contact the Foreign Language Department office.

Program Requirements: (If new courses are being created as part of a new program, it will be useful to propose courses first.)

Program Requirements

Units required for Minor: 12 upper division units.

Note: Students are required to meet with an advisor for course selection.
